

ASSOCIATE MEMBERS

What is an Associate Membership?

Individual clubs, such as a club that puts on a poultry show, local poultry clubs and breed clubs join the APA as Associate members. These associations promote poultry that are bred, raised and shown according to the APA Standard of Perfection.

Local clubs or associations that host a show could be a county or state fair, as well as educational institutions, individual clubs and breed clubs interested in “standard bred” poultry.

A listing of associate members can be found in the APA annual yearbook and on the APA website.
